

This clothing site demonstrates a serious yet interesting. By using darker, shades of grey, blue, and pink, I intend to craft a feeling of professionalism, while not leaving any part of the site bland. With transparent buttons, the site should engage the audience by attracting their attention to the various options to be explored. These buttons include the motives for the clothing company, which is extremely important to the business owners' movement. A sunset covering nearly a quarter of the page allows for a peaceful yet sobering feeling while navigating through this page.

The desktop view displays all menu options so the reader can have access to the external site without making multiple clicks. With that being said, the mobile view allows for a collapsed menu, so the page remains organized while being restricted to a smaller screen.
